

IT Lab, Office & Production

IT Lab, Office & Production

Linking production with office expands opportunities to perform analysis, create recipes and orders, data reporting for quality and traceability. The connection can also be used for remote control or support, monitoring and troubleshooting / optimization.

A common application is to connect the factory's laboratory in real-time to production to gain quick access and to efficiently take quick and most importantly right decisions.

We have many years of experience in linking new and existing production equipment with central data storage, reporting and logging.